Westover Air Force Base Commander

I wish to extend to you a personal welcome together with my sincere hope that your stay at Westover Air Force Base will be both enjoyable and worthwhile.

The personnel at Westover take pride in the base and their jobs. We work together as members of the Air Force team and I am sure that you will soon actively participate in the teamwork which raises Westover one of the finest bases in the Strategic Air Command.

AND SO IT BEGAN

HISTORY OF WESTOVER

In early August, 1939, Congress appropriated some $3,600,000 for the construction of an Army Air Base on a seven and one-half square mile plot of tobacco flat in the Connecticut Valley within the boundaries of Chicopee, Massachusetts.

From this insignificant beginning, Northeast Air Base, renamed Westover Field in honor of the late Army Air Corps Chief of Staff, Maj. Gen. Oscar Westover, began its role in the national defense effort of the Northeastern United States.

On April 6, 1940, the dedication of the base was made and the first shovel of dirt turned on the first permanent building, which is now the 8th Reconnaissance Technical Sq., photographic laboratory annex.

Although original plans called for the construction of all permanent buildings, temporary buildings mushroomed to meet the needs of the nation as it prepared for defense and later war.

The first unit activated at Westover was the Tenth Signal Platoon on June 6, 1940. By July, Army Air Corps personnel from Maxwell Field, Ala., arrived and the first aircraft to use the once tobacco flat airstrip was an A-17 which landed on December 7, 1940.

During the past 19 years, the mission of Westover has changed four times. First, it was to be a bastion of defense for the Northeast States region. With the arrival of troops and personnel, it became a training base for fighter pilots and anti-submarine crews. In December, 1943, it became a combat B-24 crew training and staging station.

Following the war, in February, 1946, the Air Transport Command, forerunner to the present Military Air Transport Service (MATS), took command of the installation and turned it into one of the largest aerial ports of embarkation on the eastern seaboard. From Westover's POB, millions of passengers and countless tons of high priority cargo were airlifted to the far-reaching corners of Europe, Saudi Arabia, and even to the shadow of the North Pole.

Westover's role in the now famed Berlin Airlift and Operation Bluejay, the Thule AB project, received highest acclaim in the annals of air transport history.

In April, 1955, an entirely new concept of what the Air Force is today, came upon the scene. The Strategic Air Command (SAC), after a lengthy programming period, took over command jurisdiction of the base and a new mission was born. SAC's global round-the-clock bomber operations and midair refueling tasks were undertaken by elements of the 87th Air Division,

FROM MAINE TO FLORIDA AND OVERSEAS

One of four numbered Air Forces within the Strategic Air Command with headquarters at Westover, the Eighth Air Force stands as a powerful bulwark against any aggressor that might threaten the security of the United States.

Currently a sprawling defense network with 16 combat-ready bases stretching from the snow-swept northeast overseas area to sunny Florida, the Eighth Air Force was born in January, 1942, under the command of Brig. Gen. Asa N. Duncan in the National Guard Armory, Savannah, Ga.

From an original nucleus of 74 officers and 81 enlisted men, the Eighth grew into a 200,000 man organization during World War II when it was instrumental in bringing Nazi Germany to its knees.

Sent to England in May, 1942, the Eighth Air Force surprised military aviation experts by advocating and proving that daylight precision bombing against German targets was advantageous despite previous unsuccessful trials.

During the remainder of the war the Eighth Air Force struck by day and the RAF by night. The command was paramount in obliterating the Luftwaffe from the skies and concepts developed during the action helped establish the present strategic long-range precision bombing program utilized by the Strategic Air Command.

The two-year period from 1946-48 found the Eighth Air Force becoming integrated into SAC in 1946 with headquarters at Carswell AFB, Tex., and receiving the first B-58 Intercontinental heavy bombers in 1948.

In 1949 the Eighth Air Force distinguished itself when a B-50 "Lucky Lady II" took off from Carswell and returned four days later having completed the first non-stop flight around the world. This fact, which was the McKay Trophy for the year, was accomplished by mid-air refueling four times by KB-29 tankers.

The Korean War found as Eighth F-84 wing in action. The command won the McKay Trophy again in 1951 and took the top wing bombing and wing navigation awards in the SAC Bombing and Navigation Competition, for 1952 and 1954.

The year 1955 saw the Eighth Air Force receiving the all-jet B-47s and moving headquarters to Westover in a realignment of bases. Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, Jr., present commander, assumed command at the new headquarters.

A year later the Eighth Air Force added the powerful eight-jet B-52 to its inventory of long-range bombardment aircraft, and gave its refueling capabilities new refinement with the addition of the all-jet tanker, the KC-135.

In 1957 the Eighth Air Force made its entry into the missile field when Headquarters USAF announced that the numbered Air Force would receive the first Intercontinental Guided Missile Sq. The Squadron was assigned to Presque Isle AFB, Me., in 1958, and uses the SM-62 Snark missile. During a previous firing, in November, 1957, the Snark demonstrated its ability to place a nuclear warhead on targets anywhere in the world.

The Eighth Air Force continues to grow. Included in its present sphere of operations are several bases in Greenland, Newfoundland, Labrador and Puerto Rico. Making up Eighth's present compliment of bases are Westover AFB; Dow AFB, Me.; Goose Bay, Labrador; Ernest Harmon AFB, Newfoundland; Horsehoe AFB, Fla.; Hunter AFB, Ga.; Lockbourne AFB, O.; Loring AFB, Me.; MacDill AFB, Fla.; McCoy AFB, Fla.; Pease AFB, N.H.; Pittsburgh AFB, N.Y.; Ramer AFB, P.R.; Sanderson AB, Greenland; Thule AB, Greenland; and Turner AFB, Ga.

MISSION OF THE 57TH AIR DIVISION

The 57th Air Division, composed of two tactical wings and an air base group, has as its mission "the combat training of the assigned wings" . . . but this concise description does not tell the full story.

One of the assigned tactical organizations is the 99th Bombardment Wing (Heavy Jet) which utilizes the B-52 jet bomber. This unit is charged with the training and equipping of crews for long range strategic bombing, to which end, men and material of the 99th are dedicated.

Midair refueling of B-52, and B-47 aircraft of the Strategic Air Command, at any time and at any place in the world, is the mission of the 4039th Air Refueling Wing. Fleets of KC-97 and KC-135 all-jet tankers from Wiesbaden provide "flying filling station" service to these tactical aircraft whenever and wherever needed.

The enormous task of furnishing base facilities to some 20 organizations on the base falls to the 814th Air Base Group, which supports the tactical organizations in the fulfillment of their part in the SAC mission: "maintenance of peace by discouraging war through poised strategic air power."

THE 99TH BOMBARDMENT WING (H)

The 99th Bombardment Wing (H) has an enviable past dating back in aviation history. As early as World War II, the 99th Wing started breaking records for outstanding performances.

During the second World War, the 99th Bomb Wing won battle honors for action in Normandy, Tunisia, North and South France, Sicily, Po Valley and in other parts of the European Theater. Probably the most famous raids took place over the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania, where low level attacks obliterated the rich oil reserves of the German Reich.

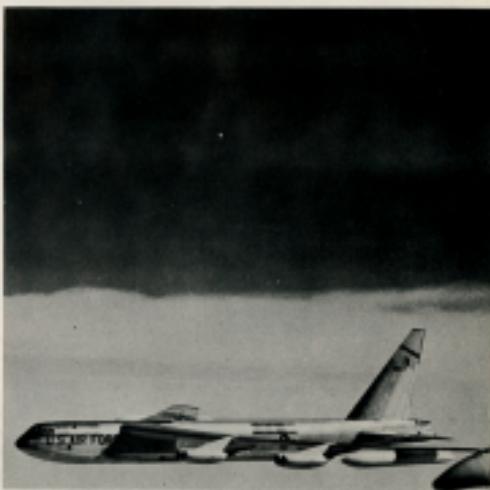

After the war, reactivation as the 111th Bomb Wing officially took place. After several redesignations, the 111th Bomb Wing officially became the 99th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing of the Strategic Air Command Jan. 1, 1953.

During September, 1955, the Wing was designated a Bombardment Wing. The Wing continued to demonstrate a high level of proficiency in performing all phases of its mission. During the training mission, "Operation Sea King," the 99th Bombardment Wing was selected as the winner of the "Payne Jeerings Trophy." Twice winning this coveted prize was a real tribute to the outstanding performance of all 99th Bombardment personnel.

More laurels were accorded the 99th Wing during its operations from an overseas base in 1956. The best performance record ever attained by the wing,

THEIR MISSION . . .

" . . . The organization and training of a force capable of immediate and sustained long-range effective bombardment . . . in any part of the world and to perform such special missions as may be directed by higher headquarters."

SAC's Mighty Punch is The B-52

and outstanding when compared to similar wings in SAC, was achieved while operating from an overseas base. New gunnery records were made and crew proficiency was demonstrated repeatedly.

The 99th Wing was formerly stationed at Fairchild Air Force Base in Washington and the aircraft utilized were B/RB-36s. Early in 1956 an announcement was made that the Wing would become the third Air Force Bomb Wing to receive the B-52, all-jet bombers. The move from Fairchild began in June, 1956, a few months later the first of the Wing's new bombers arrived.

In December, 1957, the Wing received the last of its B-52s and was declared combat-ready shortly after, and was now prepared to take its place in SAC's powerful air armada, designed to preserve the peace.

HELP FROM ABOVE'

THE 4050TH AIR REFUELING WING

The 4050th Air Refueling Wing is a distinct tactical organization under the 87th Air Division, Based at Westover. Its mission is to provide aerial refueling in the Northeast and to any and all SAC bomber units, both in support of their war mission and to fulfill their training requirements.

The 4050th Wing includes two air refueling squadrons, the 99th Air Refueling Squadron equipped with the KC-135 aircraft, and the 384th Air Refueling Squadron equipped with the KC-97 aircraft.

The concept of an independent air refueling wing is a relatively new one in SAC. The 4050th was the first such wing to be formed, and two others are now operational, one at Dow AFB, Me., and one at Malmstrom AFB, Montana. Before the inception of these refueling wings, each SAC bombardment wing had its own air refueling squadron. Many still operate that way.

At Westover, however, all tanker operations come under the 4050th Wing, and although the 99th Air Refueling Squadron shares the same number as the 99th Bomb Wing, there is no connection otherwise. By the same token, no connection exists between the wing and the 4050th USAF Hospital, which happened to be numbered at the same time, when the 4050th was the only wing on Westover.

In addition to its two tactical squadrons, the 99th and 384th, the wing has its full complement of support organizations, the 4050th Field Maintenance Squadron, 4050th Periodic Maintenance Squadron and 4050th Armament and Electronics Squadron. These carry the difficult burden of maintenance support of two totally different types of aircraft with widely differing problems.

The 4050th Wing in its short history of less than four years has made a number of lasting accomplishments. During 1955 and 1956 the Wing posed an enviable record of accomplishing all refueling missions scheduled. The tailoring up of the SAC Management Control System points for excellence in all areas of operation for the period August—November 1957 showed the 4050th Air Refueling Wing tops for all Combat Ready Wings in Eighth Air Force.

The advent of the KC-135 opened up new vistas for the wing. Since the first KC-135 was received in January, 1958, the following records have been established by the 99th Air Refueling Squadron:

New York to London—5 hours, 27 minutes (Major

Bart B. Davenport)

London to New York—5 hours, 51 minutes (Major

Bart B. Davenport)

Los Angeles to New York—3 hours, 20 minutes

(unofficial) (Captain William H. Howell)

World's record aerial payload—78,000 pounds (Captain William H. Howell). This last record stood until Dec. 16, 1958 when a MATS C-133 surpassed it.

At the time of the Lebanon crisis, U.S. State Department trouble-shooter Robert Murphy was flown non-stop from Westover to Beirut by Major Davenport in a 99th KC-135. Later, Captain William G. McDonald of this squadron flew Secretary Dulles to Rome and from Rome to Taipei, Formosa and home again.

In SAC, air refueling has been developed into a fine art. It is a routine feature of everyday training mission, and an indispensable part of SAC's war plan. "Auxilium ab Alto" — wherever and whenever "help from above" is needed in furtherance of SAC's mission, the 4050th Air Refueling Wing stands ready to deliver it.

UPON ARRIVAL

Through these portals pass SAC's best.

For the Family Man . . .

. . . The Bachelor Almon's Quarters.

Housing Headquarters 37th Air Division and the 814th Air Base Group.

SO YOU ARE AT WESTOVER

REPORTING IN . . .

Airmen and officers arriving at Westover for assignment to organizations of the 37th Air Division should report directly to the processing section of Group Personnel, Bldg. T-239. Here personnel will be given their incoming clearance and notified of their squadron assignment.

Those arriving after duty hours report to the Base Housing Office, Bldg. T-139, for registering and billeting. They must then report to the Base Clearance Section on the following work day at 0800 hours.

All officers and airmen assigned to Headquarters Eighth Air Force and any of the tenant units are registered and processed in Bldg. 336.

Personnel assigned to non SAC tenant units will report to the orderly room of their assignment. The location of the various tenant unit orderly rooms is available by contacting Air Police Headquarters or the charge of quarters, located in base headquarters.

SEPARATE RATIONS . . .

Those airmen who prefer and are eligible may apply to ration separately and reside off base. Provisions are outlined in Base Supplement #1 to Air Forces Regulation 24-1. Applications should be made immediately after arrival on 814th AEG Form 31. The base commander exercises final approval.

However, airmen living in quarters beyond reasonable commuting distance from the installation will not be granted authority to ration separately or reside off-base. Exception to this ruling will be granted only at the discretion of the base commander.

BILLETING . . .

The Base Housing Office stands ready 24 hours a day to accommodate personnel needing quarters when they arrive at Westover.

Government quarters are available for bachelor officers or married officers not accompanied by their dependents. Assignment to quarters can be made at the Base Housing Office in Building T-139. Quarters will be assigned in the order of application.

Visiting male officers who desire on base quarters may also apply for billet at the Base Housing Office.

No facilities are available for the quartering of female officers other than those assigned to the 4050th USAF Hospital.

In most cases, female officers are assigned on non-availability of quarters basis and transported to a civilian hotel. Female officers may, however, apply for quarters in the hospital area on a space available basis. Married personnel arriving at Westover with their families may apply for family housing at the Base Housing Office.

Transient NCO's and NCO's awaiting squadron assignments will be billeted in barracks reserved for that purpose.

FAMILY QUARTERS . . .

Construction is progressing rapidly on some 310 Capehart Housing units which will help alleviate the housing shortage here. The project calls for 96 buildings which will be divided into six types of units, three different types of quarters for officers and three types for airmen.

Presently, there are 1150 housing units in use. These units are one, two, three and four bedroom type for officer and airmen personnel. These units include garage space, stove and refrigerator. Heat and hot water are included in the monthly rent.

Housing units have been allocated to major organizations on a pro rata basis of personnel assigned and housing available.

Applications will be submitted to the squadron of assignment, if known, or to the Westover Family

Proper Identification for dependents . . .

. . . Rest in room comfort.

Services Officer who will attempt to contact the appropriate organization and initiate action for you. Applications must include name, grade, date of rank, duty assignment, number of dependents to reside with applicant and a copy of assignment orders.

Waiting periods for assignment to a unit may vary from one to six months dependent on the applicant's rank and type of unit desired, in spite of advance application. One bedroom units are least in demand and the most readily available.

The new units will all be of the two-story type. Of the 310 units, 134 are allocated for officers quarters and 186 as airmen units.

The housing units will have two, three or four bedrooms with hardwood flooring throughout the apartments, with the exceptions of kitchens and bathrooms, which will have ceramic and vinyl tiling, respectively.

DOMESTIC PETS . . .

Domestic animal pets may be kept on base provided they are registered at the Air Police Headquarters and have received the required inoculations as specified by pertinent base regulations and the veterinarian's section.

IDENTIFICATION CARDS . . .

The DD Form 2 AF, Identification Card, is required for all military personnel for personal identification. Dependents must secure an identification pass from the Air Police Registration and Identification section in Bldg. T-300.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS . . .

Information regarding the shipment, arrival and storage of household goods may be obtained at the Commercial Transportation Office, Bldg. T-91 on Hangar Avenue, Extension 21238.

Persons reporting to Westover, who have shipped goods, must check with the CTO as soon as possible to facilitate the proper storage of goods without additional commercial charges to the individual. Government storage facilities for uncrated household goods are not available at this station.

Rest in Dining . . .

He never forgets his safety measures.

THINGS TO REMEMBER

DUTY HOURS . . .

Every hour is a duty hour at Westover. In keeping with the Strategic Air Command's constant readiness program, Westover remains on a permanently prepared status. There's actually no need for alarms though, for every individual is afforded appropriate time off.

The hours from 0800 to 1700 have been established as normal duty hours. This schedule applies to all sections where the situation permits.

Sections required to function around-the-clock operate on a shift basis. Thus, the mission is accomplished and everyone gets time off. Each section which falls into this category determines the duty schedule for assigned personnel.

DETAILS . . .

While at Westover there will be times when you will be called upon to perform other than your normal duties. Everyone pitches in and shares these details, officers, NCO's and airmen.

For officers, they come in the form of staff duty officer, Officer-of-the-Day, eastern officer and traffic officer. All company grade non-rated officers and navigators, except medical, chaplain and WAF, can expect to perform most of the duties, with the exception of airbase officer. It is performed by all company grade officer-pilots.

Officers detailed to these duties usually are notified in writing at least five days prior to the day of detail.

Airmen of the lower four grades are required to perform various squadron details, i. e., dining hall attendants, heat control, mess checker, ground detail, and any necessary details that may be prescribed by their squadron commander or first sergeant.

In addition, noncommissioned officers are assigned to such details as noncommissioned-officer-of-the-day, staff duty NCO, escort duty, and other supervisory details assigned by unit commanders.

LEAVES AND PASSES . . .

As the saying goes, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Although Westover's military strength is made up of men instead of boys (and WAF), the saying holds true here also. Personnel are encouraged to make good use of their leaves and passes.

Request for leave must be submitted through proper channels to the squadron commander. This is done on Air Force Form 1164, available in each orderly room.

Leave in advance of accrued is granted only when conditions warrant, and leave in excess of accrued and advanced leave is granted only in extreme emergencies.

The Armed Forces Liberty Pass, most commonly known as the Class "A" pass, is required for off-base travel during normal time off. Information on its time and distance limitations may be obtained at all orderly rooms.

Misuse of the Class "A" pass is highly frowned upon at Westover. Gross abuse could cause the privilege to be revoked.

WEARING OF THE UNIFORM . . .

A good rule to remember in uniform wear, wear it right. Being out of uniform could result in a discrepancy report which is forwarded to the individual's commander or supervisor.

The service uniform will be worn during duty hours by all personnel except those whose duties necessitate the wearing of authorized fatigue uniform flight clothing, hospital or dining hall whites. All authorized uniform combinations may be worn off base in performance of duty or directly enroute to and from duty.

CIVILIAN DRESS . . .

Civilian clothing is authorized for wear by personnel during off-duty hours, however, it is expected that all personnel will exercise good judgement and choose civilian clothing appropriate to the occasion or activity.

Appropriate civilian dress for male members after 2300 hours, at all functions on or off base, except athletic, is considered to be a suit, or sport coat and trousers, with shirt and tie, or sport coat and trousers with sport shirt buttoned at collar and no tie. Exceptions may be made for specific events listed in spec mess calendars which specify required dress, or as stipulated in the Daily Bulletin.

Blue-jeans and T-shirts are not considered appropriate dress on or off Westover by military or dependent personnel of this command. Mixed wear of civilian and military clothing also is prohibited.

Wearing of abbreviated clothing such as shorts and hats by female personnel in public places and official business areas is not authorized.

AWOL . . .

An all-out effort is on here to make a good AWOL rate a perfect one. Naturally, this would mean no AWOLs at all.

Personnel absent without authority will be carried on the morning report as AWOL, and are subject to court martial under provisions as prescribed by Article 86 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

SECURITY LINE BADGES . . .

A splendid formula for staying healthy is staying in the right place. Restricted areas are the wrong places without proper permission to enter, or identification.

Restricted area badges are required for all personnel entering the flight line areas, and will be worn only in those areas. Badges may be secured by authorized personnel after proper application has been accomplished through an individual's squadron. Disregard for existing policies relative to the handling of classified information will not be tolerated and corrective action will be taken on all offenders.

Liquor AND GAMBLING . . .

Consumption of alcoholic beverages or gambling of any nature in airmen's barracks, dayrooms, offices, warehouses, hangars, etc., is prohibited.

MILITARY COURTESY . . .

No mention of military courtesy would emerge without the thought of the salute entering a person's mind. For this undoubtedly is a form of courtesy that has been prized for generations in the military services.

The military salute is a respectful salutation exchanged between two self-respecting members of the same honorable profession. It is the desire here at Westover that all officers exchange salutes, and that all airmen salute all officers.

It is also the policy here that all staff cars be saluted when officer passengers can be recognized.

COMMANDER'S CALL . . .

Westover believes highly in a well informed force. Never has the concept of the military demanded more that each individual keep abreast of pertinent policies, procedures and such.

Monthly Commander's Calls are one of the most efficient forms exercised by commanders in keeping their personnel informed. Each squadron or unit commander personally conducts a Commander's Call once a month. Attendance of all officers and airmen is mandatory. Commanders have the opportunity to present policies, objectives, and problems and to disseminate information of Air Force objectives during these gatherings.

Air Force News Review and Commander's Call films give a wide-range of happenings of fellow airmen around the world.

Restricted Area Badges a must . . .

Planning the bombing . . .

. . . Everything must be perfect.

Obey the rules of road on and off base.

SO YOU DRIVE

Hot-rodders, drag racers and showoffs are taboo at Westover. Nowhere will the words "drive safely" be heard more than here.

The stern stand taken towards completely eliminating traffic accidents and violations among base personnel will be heard over and over again; in squadrons, duty sections, snack bars and everywhere there is a congregation of people.

Safe driving is considered an obligation, on or off base.

AUTO REGISTRATION . . .

Automobile registration is rather simple, providing a few proper technicalities have been taken care of. Registration will be made at the Air Police Registration and Identification Section within 48 hours, or two normal duty days after arrival on base. The facility is located in Bldg. T-301, off Central Ave., on Griffith Rd.

Airmen first class with less than four years service and airmen below that grade must have their vehicles inspected on-base prior to registration.

The requirement for obtaining a Westover Auto Decal are: operator's license; auto insurance policy with a minimum of personal liability of $3,000-$10,000 and property damage liability in the minimum amount of $1,000, and valid safety inspection sticker from any state. Decal fee is 30c.

Personnel are advised to contact the Staff Judge Advocate when in doubt of the legality of their registration, license and insurance documents. A synopsis of the Massachusetts Motor Vehicle Laws and Regulations is available at the Staff Judge Advocate, Bldg. T-304 adjacent to the theater. It is strongly advised that every automobile operator on Westover AFB secure a copy.

SPEED LIMITS . . .

The speed limit on base is 25 MPH on all roads except where otherwise posted. Extreme caution should be exercised while driving within the family housing areas and children's play areas. When approaching a school bus, regardless of direction of motion, all motorists will come to a complete stop and proceed only after the bus resumes motion and all passengers are clear of traffic.

AUTO ACCIDENTS ON BASE . . .

In the event an automobile accident occurs on base, the Air Police desk sergeant should be notified immediately at Ext. 6260 or 4265. The automobile should not be moved unless an emergency exists.

In the event of accidents off base, strict compliance to Massachusetts vehicle laws is advised and military personnel involved will notify their respective first sergeants.

TRAFFIC TICKETS . . .

Traffic tickets for violators are given by authorized Air Police personnel and spotters assigned by the base commander.

REPORTING CHANGES . . .

Changes in registration, ownership, plate numbers, insurance (cancellation or renewal) will be made known to the Air Police registration and identification section within 48 hours. Failure to comply may result in suspension of on-base driving privileges.

Each person stationed at Westover must read and become familiar with Base Supplement #1 to Air Force Regulation 125-14, which covers in detail the rules governing the operation of privately owned motor vehicles at this base. The military member is responsible for his dependents and will insure that they are familiar with this regulation.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS . . .

Westover drivers are constantly reminded that their driving conduct must be superb 24 hours a day. This applies on base as well as off. One of the surest routes to happy motoring is to know the laws of the location in which you are driving.

All personnel who own or operate an automobile at Westover are encouraged to familiarize themselves with the motor vehicle laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Civil law enforcement agencies are constantly on the alert against improper registration of motor vehicles, operating without a driver's license, operating an unregistered vehicle or operating without liability insurance.

New or Old They Must Pass Inspection.

SERVING YOU AND YOURS

AIR FORCE AID SOCIETY . . .

The Air Force Aid Society stands ready to assist with those unforeseen emergencies that often arise.

Their mission is to better the morale and welfare of all Air Force personnel and their dependents by rendering assistance in the form of non-interest bearing loans and cash grants in such times. The local office is located in Bldg. T-239.

Personnel have the advantage of four types of membership: Associate Member, Sustaining Member, Benefactor Member, and Member-at-Large.

The Westover Field director of the ARC is located in Bldg. T-121. In general, the ARC will provide counseling services, direct communication through ARC channels and financial assistance in case of emergency. ARC can also be called upon to assist in expediting emergency leaves and extension of leaves due to emergency cases.

The ARC office is open 0800 to 1700 hours daily, 0800 to 1200 hours Saturday. During off duty hours and Sunday, the base telephone operator can contact the ARC person on stand-by duty.

AIRC AT THE HOSPITAL . . .

The Red Cross also has a resident professional unit at the Base Hospital, which provides social case work services and a medically approved recreation program and a chapel through which Red Cross volunteers from other organizations assist in the hospital program.

Social case work services include counseling for individual and family problems; reporting and communications; financial assistance in emergencies and referral to specialized agencies; personal and incidental services. All patients, and their families are eligible for Red Cross service. The social worker is available for consultation with patients, and their visitors during regular office hours 0800 to 1700. A Red Cross worker is on call for emergencies 24 hours a day. Outside of regular office hours, she may be reached through the base operator.

FAMILY SERVICE . . .

The Family Services Program is set up to relieve emergencies and undue hardships of Air Force families, especially when first reporting in to a new base or during the absence of the military member of the family.

Westover's Family Services Center is located in Bldg. T-279, across the street from the NCO Open Mess. Hours of operation are from 0745 to 1645 Mon-day through Friday, Phone Ext. 5139.

When you arrive, we suggest a visit to the Family Services Center. The center can furnish the following services for you and your family.

1. Emergency household items which you may borrow until your household goods arrive.

2. Listing on off base housing. These listings are from all surrounding communities.
3. Information on other Air Force Bases—both XI and overseas.
4. Emergency baby sitting, emergency transportation and other emergency assistance to your family in case of need.

CREDIT UNION . . .

The Westover Federal Credit Union is a non-profit organization offering savings and loan service to military personnel and their families plus civilian employees and their families. It is located in Bldg. T-113.

In order to become a member, a person must open an account with a minimum deposit of $5 plus membership fee of 25 cents.

A savings account can run as high as $10,000 for each member of a family, with each account fully covered by federal protection. The rate of interest can fluctuate up or six percent or down, depending on the numbered accounts on hand.

Dividends are prorated according to date of deposits and payable annually at the end of the calendar year.

Savings can be withdrawn at the depositor's request. When a member is transferred to another base he has the privilege of retaining his savings account with the Westover Credit Union and can mail in regular deposits. Savings accounts cannot be transferred from base to base.

Each account is covered with a free life insurance policy up to $2,000 for permanent disability or death.

Two recent Credit Union attractions have been the addition of an auto loan service and an increase in the amount of money a member can borrow.

Instead of the $300 loan granted to a member of legal age, on the members signature, the amount has been upped to $400.

On larger loans, requiring co-signers, the amount of money a member may borrow has been hiked from $600 to $2500. Loans can be repaid through a Class E allotment.

PERSONAL AFFAIRS . . .

The serviceman's personal affairs file is one of great importance to be kept in current status.

A review of this file, important to be accomplished at various times, should also be checked at times of change of station.

New arrivals may obtain necessary information concerning their personal affairs status by contacting the personal affairs section located in Bldg. T-239.

Assistance in such matters as dependents benefits, allowances, insurance and other important statistics is available to those requiring it. Squadron orderly rooms will also provide assistance in some matters.

SO YOU WANT TO GET AHEAD

EDUCATION SERVICES . . .

An important factor in the military career of each individual is that of bettering one's education for the purpose of advancing in his particular field.

In the military service every opportunity is made available to personnel who desire to take advantage of educational benefits from a small scale to an extensive study program.

The Base Education Office is prepared to assist Westover AFB personnel in any and all matters involving education from the reviewing of basic arithmetic to completing a college degree.

Located in Bldg. T-193 the scope of educational opportunities offered and assistance given includes the following:

Opportunity for learning is provided through USAF correspondence and group study classes. Included under this program are courses in vocational-technical fields.

A large variety of both technical and academic subjects from elementary through college sophomore level are also included.

One initial enrollment fee of $5.00 entitles military personnel on active duty to enroll in any course in which they are interested and for which they are qualified to do the work. The original fee allows a student to complete the series of courses without additional charge, contingent upon successful completion of each successive course.

Courses designed to increase knowledge and improve skills within specific AFSCs and to develop greater proficiency among airmen and officers are offered through ECI correspondence.

Under "Operation Bootstrap", Air Force personnel through individual initiatives may complete requirements for high school diploma or college degree. A student may complete work leading to a degree by attending full-time classes at the college of his choice under the six-months TDY provisions of "Bootstrap".

"Operation Midnight Oil" is a program based upon career study plans whereby airmen (including Warrant Officers) may improve their general educational qualifications in a career field during off-duty time. The Education Office may be contacted for complete information.

The Education Services Office arranges off-duty classes at both off-base and on-base schools in a variety of subjects on the basis of demand. There is no charge for enrollment in these classes. Beginning dates are announced in the Base Newspaper and on bulletin boards.

A testing service is also maintained through which military personnel may apply for and be administered a variety of tests including the high school and college GED tests. A counseling service is available to help develop and plan a continuing program. High School diplomas may be obtained by completing procedures outlined by the Educational counselor.

Counseling is also given those requiring additional credits for completing high school or college.

EIGHTH AIR FORCE NCO ACADEMY

NCO ACADEMY . . .

Located at Westover is the Eighth Air Force Non-commissioned Officer Academy, one of three such academies in the Strategic Air Command.

Classes, each five weeks in duration, are conducted year round. Quarters are established by Headquarters Eighth Air Force for all stations within the command, based on the assigned strength of master sergeants.

The mission of the Academy is to assure that the Noncommissioned Officer is aware of his full responsibility and to increase his ability to fulfill his proper role in the Air Force.

All courses in the Academy curriculum are considered a part or phase of overall leadership development. At the Academy, students are expected to accept and seek opportunities where their leadership abilities can be demonstrated. Thus, students of past classes share much credit for the successful program experienced since its beginning at Westover.

New students are required to report not earlier than 0600 nor later than 1200 the Friday preceding their class starting date. Should it become necessary to arrive at Westover before the date specified, students are accommodated at the Transient NCO Quarters, Building T-159, on a space available basis.

Students reporting at the time specified are registered in the Administration Building, T-163. Members of the staff are on duty to receive and brief students on Academy policies and procedures, issue equipment, and assign rooms.

All students are required to live in the Academy dormitory and eat in the Academy Dining Hall. Since no on-base family quarters are available for TDY personnel, students are advised not to bring their families.

Quarters consist of two-story "barracks-type" buildings which have been remodeled for 1, 2, and 3 man rooms. Rooms are furnished with dressers, chairs, desks, lamps, three quarter beds with inner-spring mattresses, and wall closets.

Hours are long at the Academy. A student starts his day at 0500 daily. Instruction begins at 0700.

The training schedule normally ceases at 1200 on Saturday. One daily 30 minute coffee period is included in the schedule. Students are required to be in quarters by 2300 each night except Saturdays and evenings preceding holidays; however, they normally are free after the noon meal on Saturday until 2300 Sunday.

Classrooms are air conditioned and provide space for 120-man lectures or 20-man group activities.

The vast curriculum includes Military Justice, Air Force History, Human Relations and Leadership, Supervision and Management, Communicative Skills, Training, Military Courtesy, Drill and Ceremonies.

Sixth . . .

Physical Training and Conditioning, and World Affairs.

A total of 220 academic hours make up the course.

Though undergoing a packed schedule, students do find time for recreation. The Base Theater is a short walking distance from the Academy area and schedules are posted on quarters bulletin boards.

In addition to the Academy's equipment, students also utilize the swimming pool, tennis courts, and gymnasium which offers handball, basketball, weight lifting and judo. Both Chapels are also located in the Academy area.

The Base Library maintains a reserve section of the main library for the NCO Academy. Books are available on a loan basis for students' use in conjunction with their subjects. A professional reading section is also provided.

Graduation exercises are held on the last day of the course. Exercises consist of a graduation address and presentation of the diplomas by a senior officer.

A graduation banquet is held on the evening preceding graduation day. Although this banquet is generally a stag affair, wives and guests are encouraged to attend other graduation ceremonies.

Occasionally a military ball and banquet are held prior to graduation. Students are notified well in advance and are encouraged to invite wives and guests to this function.

Special recognition goes to those students graduating with distinction. The Honor Graduate Award is presented to the student who distinguishes himself as the most outstanding student of his class. He must have proven himself an outstanding leader in all phases of the Academy program.

Next in line is the Academic Achievement Award, presented to the student who graduates with the highest academic standing of the class.

The Commandant's Award is bestowed upon the student who, in the opinion of the Commandant, assisted by faculty and student evaluation, is considered to have shown the most outstanding leadership qualities of his class.

Where Do You Want To Go?

OUR NEIGHBORS IN THE PIONEER VALLEY

Newcomers to Westover will find a wealth of activities and interesting points in the several large and small near-by cities. Largest of all is Springfield, with a 1957 population of about 185,000, which is seven miles from the base. Springfield is noted as the home of the George Walter Smith Gallery, Museum of Natural History, William Pynchon Memorial Museum, United States Armory (established in 1785 by George Washington), and the Small Arms Museum, the largest in the world.

Holyoke, population some 54,000, is located but five miles from Westover. Known as a "city in the country," it is unique in that it was the first planned industrial city in the nation. It was actually planned on paper—blueprinted—before a building was erected. In 1849, the Hadley Falls Co., forerunner of the present Holyoke Water Power Co., began development of the area to take advantage of the power of the Connecticut River.

Holyoke today boasts one of the finest industrial Parks in Western Mass., and industrial development and expanding industry testifies to its progressive ness. More than this, it is a city too of beautiful homes. It has fine hotels, and some of the best restaurants in New England.

Its excellent downtown shopping area features newly developed off-street parking and all goods and services.

The Holyoke Chamber of Commerce is a source of information and service to Westover AFM personnel and is ready at all times to assist them with many of their problems.

Chicopee, comprising Chicopee center, Chicopee Falls, Aldenville, Fairview and Willimantic, is the site of Westover Air Force Base.

The town is a growing industrial center of Western Massachusetts and traces its growth to 1825 when the first tools and fine metal products were produced in the town. A local manufacturing firm is reported to have been the first factory to cast bronze statuary casting and these castings are still in evidence to this day in many large cities. The first friction matches in this country also came from Chicopee in 1934.

Many nationally known individuals have come from this small Western Massachusetts town. Most notable perhaps was Edward Bellamy, who attained fame throughout the literary world with his book, "Looking Backward." He and his brother, Edward, founded and published the first edition of the Springfield Daily News in 1880. General Arthur MacArthur, father of General Douglas MacArthur, Mary Garden, Forest Lanning, George Rorison, Charles O'Conor and Sylvia Zarenka, are other prominent Chicopee natives that attained national fame.

RECREATION AREAS . . .

Several state parks and reservations in the Westover area offer personnel year-round recreation. Mount Tom State Reservation, located just south of Holyoke, is noted for bridle trails, picnic areas, outdoor theaters, skating and skiing.

The Berkshire Hills, noted as one of the most scenic spots in New England, is just a short drive from Westover. Mohawk Trail, renowned as a vista of contrasting colors in fall season, winds through the Berkshires.

In the summer season, recreational areas for swimming and camping include Hampton Ponds, Lake Congdon, Hampton Beach in New Hampshire, and the not-too-far beaches of Cape Cod and Rhode Island.

AMUSEMENT PARKS . . .

Two large amusement parks are located in the general Westover area. Mountain Park in Holyoke offers the usual amusements plus weekly attractions of name bands and specialty dances. A summer stock theater is located in the park and presents approximately ten productions of Broadway shows.

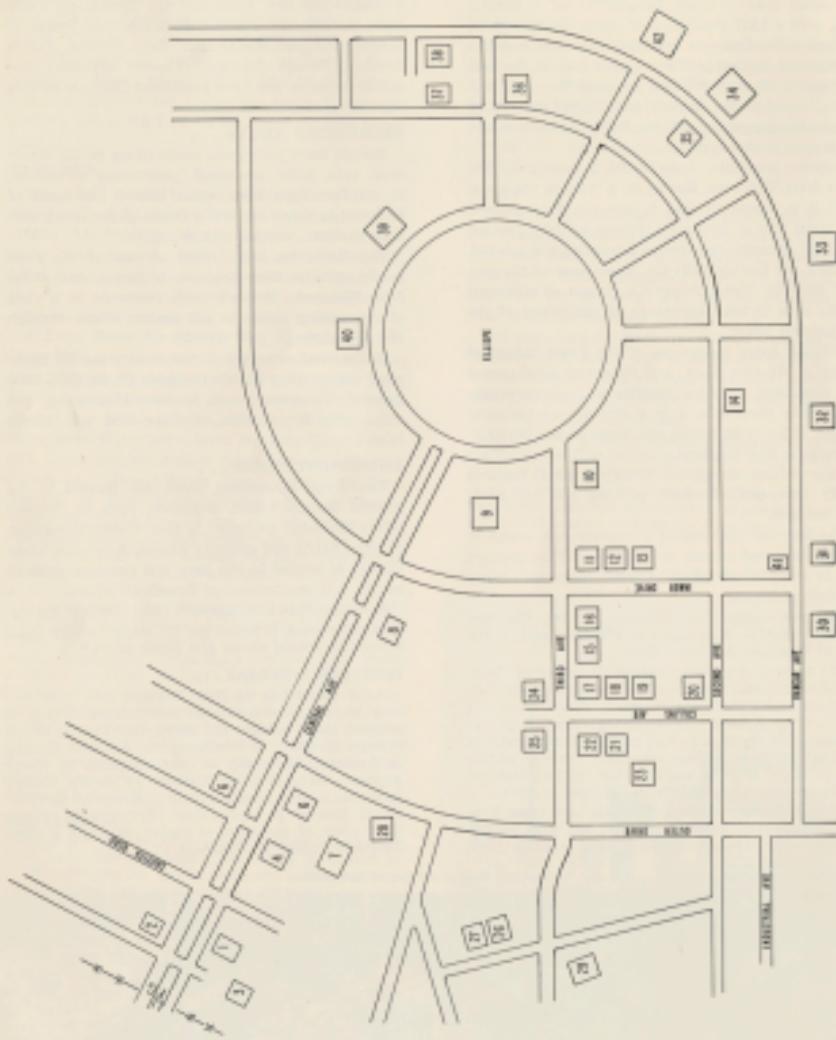

Riverside Park is in Agawam just outside of Springfield. This park is noted for its many novelty rides as well as special shows and picnic areas.

POINTS OF INTEREST . . .

As a crossroads of New England, the Westover area is noted for historical and colorful points of interest. Local colleges and universities include Smith College (female) in Northampton, Amherst College in Amherst, University of Massachusetts in North Amherst, Mt. Holyoke College in South Hadley (America's first female college), American International College in Springfield, Springfield College (birthplace of the sport of basketball), and a State Teachers College in Westfield,
